PACKING HOUSE EMPLOYEES ARE ON STRIKE

(By Associated Press)

Chicago, Dec. 5.—Union packing house employees at fifteen packing centers in the middle west went on strike today. The "Big Five" packers declared that the organizations represented less than five percent of the total employees, while union leaders insisted they had gained support of more than half of the workers.

The strike was voted by the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butchers Workers of North America after a wage reduction of approximately 10 per cent had been ordered.

The packers reported that they intended to fill immediately the places of all workers who failed to report.

The employment office of Swift and Company reported that they had "two men for every job." The company said approximately 90 per cent of the regular force reported for work this morning. The Swift plant employs about 7000.

PEACE NEGOTIATIONS BETWEEN ENGLAND AND IRELAND BROKEN

Truce is Still in Effect and Hostilities Are in Abeyance

(By Associated Press)

London, Dec. 5.—The Irish peace negotiations have broken down according to statements in response to questions today, and the Dail Ehreann delegates are expected to return finally to Ireland Tuesday or Wednesday.

The correspondence in connection with the negotiations will be made public by the Government, it was stated, and Prime Minister is expected to make an explanatory statement.

On the Government's side it was indicated the argument will be that the refusal of the Sinn Fein to accept the allegiance to the King made any agreement impossible, since that was insisted upon by the British and was, in addition, an essential preliminary to securing any assent from Ulster.

The truce still remains in effect and no immediate resumption of hostility is looked for.

The Sinn Fein, it is declared, refused even a conditional promise of allegiance contingent upon a settlement. The most it offered being "to recognize" the King as head of the commonwealth of three nations.

The Sinn Fein delegates visited Downing street at 3 o'clock. It is understood their conference with the government representatives would concern the continuation of the truce.

HEAD-ON COLLISION OF TRAINS

(By Associated Press)

Philadelphia, Dec. 5.—A head-on collision of local passenger trains on the Newtown Branch of the Philadelphia and Reading Railway between Woodmont and Papermill, situated 16 miles from Philadelphia, today resulted in the death it was believed of nine to twelve persons and injury to more than a score of others.

TRIBUTE PAID TO WHITTLESEY

New York, Dec. 5.—In a simple ceremony, half religious, half military, more than 1000 persons tonight paid tribute to the memory of Lieut. Col. Charles W. Whittlesey, commander of the famous "Lost Battalion" of the Argonne, who disappeared from a vessel bound for Havana a week ago today.

"His death was a battle casualty, as much in the line of duty as if he had fallen by a German bullet. The scars of conflict or the wounds of battle are not always of the flesh. We of the regular army have seen too often the results of mental strain."

Such, with a few words to illustrate Col. Whittlesey's sensitive nature, which he said shrank from the harrowing remembrances of the events in which he had played so heroic a part, was the eulogy of one of the former officer's brother-in-arms, Col Nathan K. Averill, commander of the 305th Infantry.

He told how Col. Whittlesey coming from the quiet scholastic life of a city lawyer, was thrown at once into the thick of the fighting in France, how he won fame by telling his German would-be captors to "Go to Hell" and of the emotional torture he endured while watching his men slowly perish from hunger, thirst and their wounds. Continuation of the same mental suffering since the end of the war, through ministering to the suffering survivors, he said, hastened the breakdown that led to final self-destruction.

ELKS HOLD MEMORIAL SERVICE

The Portsmouth Lodge of Elks, along with every lodge of Elks in the country, on Sunday held their annual memorial services for their departed members and it was the usual impressive ceremony. The services were held at the Colonial theatre and it was one of the largest crowd for many years.

Attorney General John Weston Allen, a member of Newton Lodge, No. 1327, a man who has been very much in the limelight in Massachusetts for some time, delivered the memorial address and the rest of the program was the same high grade.

The stage was well set for the service and Exalted Ruler George P. Shannon and the officers of the lodge conducted the impressive ritual in a dignified manner. They were ably assisted by an excellent orchestra under the leadership of Alexander Hilbruck and a mixed quartette. The musical program was exceptionally good, the numbers by the orchestra and the vocal numbers being well selected and finely rendered.

The services opened with a selection by the orchestra, Beethoven's Funeral March. Exalted Ruler Shannon then opened the ceremonies using the usual ritual in which all of the officers take part. Prayer was offered by Chaplain Thurston Sugar.

"There is a Land of Pure Delight" was finely rendered by the quartette.

A selection by the orchestra was followed by the roll call of the deceased members and nine names were added to the list since last year. "The Vacant Chair" was impressively sung by the quartette.

Attorney General Allen built up his address on the meaning of the Elks ritual. Going back to the early days he told of the fight for justice that was made by the colonies and then traced the progress of justice down to the present day, saying that it was only by constant vigilance that it could be secured. He then took up the other point such as charity and spoke of the work of the lodge in this respect. His eulogy of the dead was especially fine.

The following members have died during the past year: Jeremiah C. Sullivan, Norman H. Deane, John Trivalla, George Wentworth, Noel Chatillon, Christopher Jackson, John P. Kelley, James Hollis and Henry La Flamme.

The following was the program:

Attorney General Allen was tendered a reception at the Rockingham Hotel by the members of the Elks following the services at the Colonial theatre. He was accompanied to this city by Mrs. Allen and Mrs. John T. Lambert. At noon there was a dinner party at the hotel consisting of Mr. Allen's party, Mayor Hartford, Exalted Ruler Shannon and Chaplain Smart and Mrs. John Sandford.

Mr. Allen is intensely interested in our historic old houses and he was shown about the city and some of the more famous of the houses pointed out. He delayed his return until late in the evening so that he could look over the city, and promises to make a more extended visit for this purpose alone at some future date.

The third attraction in the entertainment course of the Portsmouth Teachers' Association, the Abbie Operatic Soprano at High School hall this evening will attract many.

WOOD THE TAILOR

CONDUCTOR SACRIFICED HIS LIFE TO SAVE THAT OF OLD MAN

The public service utilities commission of Maine has rendered the following decision on the accident which occurred on the Boston & Maine railroad at North Berwick, Oct. 11 last, resulting in the death of Walter Perkins. The commission declares that Mr. Perkins sacrificed his official duties when the accident occurred and he sacrificed his life in his attempt to save Mr. Kelley of North Berwick, an aged man, from danger.

"Walter Perkins of Dover, N. H., aged 47 years, a freight conductor on the Boston & Maine railroad was struck by his own train, being B. & M. Extra Freight No. 1,365, in the North Berwick yard, at 11.10 a. m., Oct. 11, 1921, and received injuries from which he died the next day at the hospital at Dover," says the public utilities commission in its decision.

"Boston & Maine Extra Freight No. 1,365, in charge of Conductor Perkins, came from Dover to North Berwick and after arriving at the North Berwick station, the crew were making up their train preparing to return to Dover again," continues the decision.

"Conductor Perkins was stationed near the Bradbury or Potter grade crossing, so called, located in the North Berwick yard for the purpose of protecting this crossing while the shifting movements of his train were being made over it. Just as a portion of the train was backed over this crossing W. M. Kelley of North Berwick, an old man, 86 years of age, came along the street and not noticing these moving freight cars was attempting to pass over the crossing.

"Mr. Perkins, the conductor, attempted to rescue Mr. Kelley from the dangerous situation that he was in and prevent him from being run over by the moving cars. In so doing, Mr. Perkins was struck by the freight car which ran over his legs and very severely bruised and injured him in other respects. He was immediately taken to the hospital at Dover, where every possible effort was made to save his life, but his injuries were so severe that he died the following day. Mr. Kelley was knocked down and somewhat severely injured at the same time, and he was taken to his own home and received the attention of the doctors."

THRESHING MADE A PASTIME

Italian Families Beat Wheat From Straw in Rhythm, and Seem to Enjoy the Work.

Gasparino Dante got up early Sunday morning, and before the sun was very high his day's work was well started on his farm near Capua, Italy. The two daughters—one eighteen and the other fifteen—started (and finished) the day with the men. The younger children were too small to be of any help, although the boy of ten scattered wheat over the stone threshing floor so that it would be ready when the older members of the family had finished with breakfast—bread and cheese and coffee, for Dante can afford coffee in the morning. He owns thirty acres.

When threshing started, the father paired with the oldest girl on the side of the floor; the other couple stood side by side opposite. The four flails were poised high in the air an instant and then at a shout from the farmer one pair descended and as they were lifted the couple opposite struck.

The four beat the grain, keeping perfect time and pausing only while the boy raked the straw into a pile at one side of the floor and swept the kernels of wheat into another heap and threw down a fresh supply.

Then, with a shouted signal that seemed to welcome the new onslaught the rhythm of the thumping started again. The manner of the threshers was more like that of couples dancing an old-fashioned quadrille than that of harvest toilers under the blistering blinding midsummer sun of southern Italy.

SWEPT OFF ALL VEGETATION

Ancient Records Tell of Visitation of Locusts That Were Followed by Dire Famine.

A passage of locusts in France, in 1613, entirely cut up even to the roots more than 15,000 acres of corn near Arles, and had even penetrated into the barns and granaries, when, as it were by Providence, many hundreds of birds, especially starlings, came to diminish their numbers. Notwithstanding this, nothing could be more astonishing than their multiplication, for the fecundity of the locust is remarkable.

Upon an order issued by the government for the collection of their eggs more than 3,000 measures were collected, from each of which, it was calculated, would have issued nearly two millions of young ones. In 1679 they entered Russia in immense divisions in three places, thence passed over into Poland and Lithuania, where the air was darkened by their numbers. In many parts they lay dead to the depth of four feet. Sometimes they covered the surface of the earth like a dark cloud, loaded the trees, and the destruction which they produced exceeded all calculation. In 1645 immense swarms visited the islands of Formosa and Tayowan and caused such a famine that 8,000 persons died of hunger.

"Voices" of Crickets.

Crickets sing with their wings and not with their legs. And katydids do the same. You do not believe it? Since you were a little child you have been told that crickets made their chirping sounds by rubbing their hind legs together or scraping their legs against their wings or sides, or something like that. At any rate, they made what might be called foot notes or sang by leg power.

Insect students have settled the question. They say that crickets, like nearly all other varieties of singing insects, have "stringulating organs" at the base of their wings. Rubbing these organs together, they produce vibrations and the wings which are hollow, serve as sounding boards and increase the volume of the sound. The "stringulating organs" look like two small folded wings having saw-like edges. The insect rasps these two saw edges together.

Origin of Famous Phrase.

There was a time when "Let'er go, Gallagher," meaning start or "cut loose," was heard in all parts of the United States. The exclamation was originated by a Judge Beaver, of Morgan county, Ky., during a trotting meeting in Tippon county.

The judge had entered a mare which was driven by one Gallagher, the city marshal of Hartrodsburg. Some of the sporting fraternity, thinking to catch the judge napping, entered a famous fast trotter against his horse. At the end of the first half-mile the two racers approached the wire neck and neck at a 2:40 pace. At this moment the judge shouted:

"Let'er go Gallagher!"

Gallagher hearing the words, loosed the reins and the mare rushed forward and won by almost a dozen lengths.

Harold's Destination.

Harold's parents had just recently moved to town, and one of his little friends invited him to a party. Harold went, but did not enjoy himself. The games seemed so silly, and the girls were always giggling, and Harold was not sure that he was not the subject of their mirth. He endured it for a while, but finally slipped from the room, expecting to leave unnoticed.

But just as he was opening the door, the little host's mother saw him and asked: "Why, what's the matter, Harold?"

To which he replied: "Aw, there's nothing the matter with Harold, but he are going home."

Starving Russians Helped by Their Friends Here Through Hoover Plan

This Russian mother has laid her famished baby on a bed of straw and is watching over the little one, while the father is scouting around the countryside in quest of food. They are refugees in flight from the famine area, but, like tens of thousands of others, with little hope of winning the race with hunger, unless help comes quickly.

It was to save just such families as this that the American Relief Administration, headed by Herbert Hoover, has instituted the Food Remittance system which permits residents of the United States to buy and have delivered to friends or relatives in Russian from $10 to $50 worth of foodstuffs. Flour, condensed milk, beans, rice, hominy, cooking fats, sugar, and tea or cocoa comprise the balanced rations that are delivered to the recipient of each remittance.

One-quarter of the food authorized for each Food Remittance is turned over to the free mass child feeding kitchens of the American Relief Administration, in this way the purchaser of the remittance is given the privilege of contributing to the assistance of the 1,200,000 Russian children the A. R. A. will take care of this winter. At the same time the recipient of the remittance gets as much food as the sender could purchase at retail in the United States. This because of wholesale buying, bulk shipping and free service in Russia. The A. R. A. guarantees delivery to the recipient at the warehouse nearest his home. These warehouses are being established and stocked with food in all parts of Russia.

Persons desiring to purchase Food Remittances may apply either in person or by mail, to the Russian Department, American Relief Administration, 42 Broadway, New York City. They will receive a blank form which they must fill out and return to the A. R. A. with a money order. The remittances are forwarded by mail to the London office of the A. R. A., thence by courier to Moscow, from where they are distributed to the proper warehouses. The recipients are then notified to come to the warehouses and get their food.

LATEST PRODUCT OF HOOCHOLOGY

Boy, Page Mr. Volstead, and Get His Opinion on the Latest.

Most every day something new developes in the hooch exchange and the latest on the long list of inventions, which have appeared since the signing of Mr. Volstead, is the product of the prickly, hairy vine known as the pumpkin.

The trick is produced by cutting a hole in one end of the pumpkin, digging out the seeds and filling the vegetable with sugar. After 24 days the liquid produces a wallop that equals the kick of a young Johnny horse. The farmer is credited with the discovery of this "bing bang" but it is not known whether his address is Maine or New Hampshire. Next!

The old English seacoast town of Great Yarmouth contains what is said to be the narrowest street in this world. It is known as Kitty Witches row, and its greatest width is 68 inches.

ENGLISH HOUSE OF VANDERBILT FOR SALE

London.—Sunderland House, one of the most luxurious of ducal houses and the property of Mme. Louis Jacques Balsan, formerly the Duchess of Marlborough and Consuelo Vanderbilt, of New York, is in the market. During the war Sunderland House was requisitioned by the Office of Work and all the famous art treasures were removed. Until quite recently it was the London home of the Duchess of Marlborough. This huge palace, French hotel in Grosvenor Street, which was built by the late W. K. Vanderbilt as a gift for his daughter Consuelo, contains a great marble hall and a double gilt staircase. The rooms all run into each other and the whole of one side of the house is taken up by the ball room which has a wonderful painted ceiling and great crystal chandeliers with the ducal crown and Churchill arms mixed in evidence.

The Duchess of Marlborough obtained a divorce from the Duke in 1920. In July last, she was married to Lieutenant-Colonel Louis Jacques Balsan, a retired French army officer and a sportsman, who served during the war with the French army as liaison officer with the British air forces in France. Before her marriage to M. Balsan, she had purchased a fine estate at Eze, near Monte Carlo.

LITERARY NOTES

The Page Company is giving the book stores some choice books for the Christmas holidays and from some of the most successful authors. "Smiling Pass" from the pen of Eliot H. Robinson, author of "Smiles," "A Rose of the Cumberland," etc., is an interesting story of life among the isolated dwellers in our Southern Highlands.

"Smiling Pass" is fiction purely, yet it is fiction interwoven with facts, whose authenticity is vouched for. And the facts which the author has set down are not recounted in any spirit of harsh criticism, but with all sympathetic friendliness, and in the hope that those who may read this volume may come to a fuller understanding—and be charitable. For he has lived among these "our contemporaneous ancestors" and loves them.

In the story in which this is a sequel, the mountain child, Rose—whom men called "Smiles"—courageously fought her way out of the shadows which invest life in those isolated hills. It is the story of an individual, simply. Loreen Smiles turns her face again to her beloved mountains to help those others who "hain't never had no chance" to help themselves.

It should be stated that "Smiling Pass" is a purely imaginary spot which might be located in the mountain fastnesses of any one of the five states having in the Southern Highlands. Work not unlike that which is started here is being nobly carried on in places there today. Similarly, the characters introduced, although true to life, are not patterned after any particular set of people. This is said because the author does not wish any of his mountain friends, among whom he has dwelt, to feel that they have been used as material. At the same time he desires to acknowledge his deep indebtedness to them all, and in particular to one—now a law abiding citizen and deputy sheriff, but not long since an outlaw and moonshiner—whose original song is put into the mouth of "Bad Bill" Cress in the latter part of the book.

"The Friendly Terrace Quarintette," by Harriet Lummis Smith, author of "The Girls of Friendly Terrace," and many others, is from the press of The Page Company, Boston. [illegible]

"A Flower of Monterey," [illegible] when Spain controlled our western [illegible] beautiful and art [illegible] saw sailing. Mrs. Connell has received [illegible] Spanish town where [illegible] slavery at dawn [illegible] scarlet uniforms [illegible] of an afternoon dress [illegible] beautiful women wore lace mantillas. Pajarita, the "Flower of Monterey," is an American waif, cast up by the sea, who grows up among the señors and señoritas, having as her pastime, but with a healthy American disrespect for the Spanish modes of life. Two men love her—Don Jose, the gobernador proprietaire of all the California, and a young American sailor adventurer, John Asterly.

John Asterly, the hero of "A Flower of Monterey," came to the California from Boston. He is perhaps thirty years old, adventurous and impetuous. At a dance on the beach at Monterey, shortly after his arrival in the California, he meets Pajarita, "The Flower of Monterey," and falls in love with the girl, although she is promised to her benefactor, the Spanish Governor. On the very night before her wedding, Asterly tries to persuade Pajarita from her marriage with Don one other than an American, and then the romance, rivalry and adventure begin. The historical setting of the story is correct and the romance unfolds with dash and symmetry. The Page Co., Boston. Cloth, decorative, 12mo, illustrated, $1.00.

"Wild Wings," by Margaret B. Piper, author of "Sylvia's Experiment," "The House on the Hill," etc. In this "story of youth for grown-ups," the vigorous, happy Holiday youngsters who lived in the "House on the Hill" develop into keen, lovable young people, thoroughly worth knowing. To Tony, as brilliant and beautiful as a girl can well be and still be human, comes a successful theatrical career on Broadway, and a great love, and Larry grows into the industrious, reliant young doctor that one would expect him to be.

Few writers today display the ability which Miss Piper does to "grow up" a large family of boys and girls, each with an individuality well developed and attractive, and her Holiday family holds a distinctive place in American fiction for young people today.

As the charming characters work their way out of problems which face all young people of buoyant spirits and ambitions, "Wild Wings" gives a definite message as to the happiest relationship between old and young. The Page Co., Boston. Cloth, decorative, 12mo, illustrated, $1.00.

"Honor Bright," by Laura E. Richards, a new book for girls. No girl ever deserved more to have a series of stories written about her than does "Honor Bright," the honored heroine of a talented author who has created many charming girls. Born of American parents who die in the far East, Honor spends her school days at the Pension Madeline in Vevey, Switzerland, surrounded by playmates of half a dozen nationalities. As are all of Mrs. Richards' heroines, Honor Bright is the highest type of the young girl of America, with all the independence of character which is American to the core in young as in old. Cloth, decorative, 12mo, illustrated, $1.75.

Reading Chauncey M. Depew's "Leaves from My Autobiography," in the December Scribner's, is almost like hearing him talk at a dinner-party. He gives delightful personal impressions of a number of famous American statesmen and, of course, includes some good stories. In this installment are impressions of General Grant, Roscoe Conkling, Garfield and Arthur, Grover Cleveland, and James G. Blaine.

Henry van Dyke's short story in the December Scribner's, "To Avernus and Out," is in a different vein from anything he has ever written. It shows how thoroughly he knows the varying shades of life in a great city and the possibility of a down-and-out, through circumstances, finding a way to a life of hope and promise. The story is extremely dramatic and holds the reader's attention from the beginning.

"Famous Leaders of Industry," 2nd series. The recognition by prominent educators and readers in general of the value of Edwin Wildman's famous [illegible] series of biography [illegible] that Mr. Wildman, editor of "The Saturday Evening Post," prepared a second series of life sketches of some of our greatest industrial leaders—makers of America—and The Page Company have announced the publication of Famous Leaders of Industry, Second Series. In the new volume are Andrew Carnegie, steel magnate and philanthropist; Charles A. Comiskey, the "grand old Roman" of baseball; Herbert Clark Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, and "practical humanitarian"; Andrew William Mellon, banker, business organizer, philanthropist, and at present Secretary of the Treasury; Lee Shubert, "the Aladdin of theatres"; Harry Ford Sinclair, "the Napoleon of oil fields"; and many other "leaders" whose business or industrial achievements warrant their inclusion in Mr. Wildman's inspiring book.

Advised to Go Slow

Not before in many years has there been such wholesale injury and destruction of trees as took place during the recent ice storm from which so many sections in New England suffered. Shade trees and fruit trees have been broken and crushed under the great burden of ice that accumulated upon them, and in many regions these wrecks of what were the pride of communities and private owners present a sorry spectacle.

And, as was perfectly natural, the people of the districts over which the storm held sway turned their attention to the fallen and injured trees as soon as the storm was over. Not only were those which had been utterly ruined removed, but the cutting down of injured trees was begun. This was proper in cases where the destruction was complete, but Governor Cox of Massachusetts became convinced that many of the trees that were being felled could be saved, and has issued a call to the people of his state to cease chopping operations until a careful study can be made in the case of each tree marked for the axe. He advises them to consult tree experts before cutting, in the belief that many trees apparently ruined can be saved. Says the Governor: "In the past few hours reports have reached me from various sections of the commonwealth that individuals are cutting down beautiful shade trees which have been injured during the recent storm. It is possible to save many such trees, although apparently they have been destroyed. As a protection to the citizens of tomorrow for their comfort and enjoyment, I urge that every citizen hesitate to cut down trees without taking advice from local tree wardens or experts, and to use every means to save the lives of our trees."

This is good advice. Without doubt there are thousands of trees that are past saving, but this is no reason why any that can be saved should be sacrificed. Even if the trees saved are not quite as perfect as before, it must be remembered that they are something that cannot be grown in a day or a year, and there should be no slaughtering of such as can be saved in reasonable condition.

Whoever has worked in the woods knows that when a big tree is felled smaller trees in the immediate vicinity appear to be seriously damaged, but in most cases time heals their wounds and they become as thrifty as they were before. This truth applies to shade and fruit trees which may now appear to be worthless, and chopping may well be deferred until all the possibilities are known.

New England cities and towns are noted, among other things, for their beautiful shade trees. In many communities these have suffered severely from the effects of one of the worst storms of the kind within the memory of the present generation, and the task now is to save as many of them as possible without retaining positive disfigurations. Where a tree is beyond redemption it cannot be removed too soon and replaced with one which will in time fill the void created. There are varieties of trees that will make a good showing in from twenty to thirty years, and it will be better to start one of these than to "prolong the agony" by nursing the relic of a monarch that has been placed beyond the hope of redemption.

That is what Governor Cox means in his appeal to the people of Massachusetts to go slow with the axe at this time, and the hint may well be taken in all regions ravaged by the storm, whether in or out of Massachusetts. Cutting can be done at any time, and it will be wise to be sure before proceeding that the axe is the only remedy that meets the case.

Fuel Administrator Hultman of Boston is receiving many complaints of the poor quality of coal being sold in that city and is looking into the matter. He believes that with coal as plentiful as it is now there is no excuse for working off an undue quantity of slate, and the public will agree with him. But it seems to be very hard to break "war habits."

The Maine farmers who had good crops of apples this year are receiving handsome returns from them. In some parts of the country the choice qualities are selling at $14 a barrel, and orders are being received from as far west as Minnesota. This is a condition that offsets some of the hard knocks the farmers occasionally have to stand.

Fourteen lives were lost during the hunting season in Maine, which is five more than last year's record. Some of the killings were accidental, but four men were shot by being mistaken for deer. The deer hunting season in Massachusetts is now opening and it remains to be seen what the record of fatalities in that state will be.

"Bluebeard" Landru of France has been convicted and sentenced to death by the guillotine. In France this means something. In this country it would mean another trial or commutation of sentence, with ultimate freedom easily within the possibilities.

Admiral Beatty has returned to England greatly pleased with his visit to this country, and promises to come again at the first opportunity. They all like the United States after once getting a whiff of its wholesome atmosphere.

An egg pool has been unearthed in Chicago which is said to be netting $30,000 a day. One of the processes is to sell at present prices as "strictly fresh" eggs that were placed in cold storage last March.

That is what Governor Cox means in his appeal to the people of Massachusetts to go slow with the axe at this time, and the hint may well be taken in all regions ravaged by the storm, whether in or out of Massachusetts. Cutting can be done at any time, and it will be wise to be sure before proceeding that the axe is the only remedy that meets the case.

THE ISSUE BETWEEN ENGLAND AND IRELAND

The big question at issue between the British government and the representatives of the Irish republican parliament have been:

Shall Ireland become entirely independent or, if it remains within the British Empire, shall there be two separate governments in Ireland, one for Ulster and one for the rest of the country?

Prime Minister Lloyd George has refused to consider any proposal that would put Ireland outside the Empire.

The Sinn Feiners refused to admit that Ireland should be split in two parts.

Ulster refused to unite in any parliament with the Sinn Feiners. It has organized a parliament of its own under the government of Ireland act.

The Sinn Feiners refused to set up a parliament for the South of Ireland as proposed in that act. They adhered to their own Irish parliament, called the Dail Eireann, which they made out independently as the governing body of the Irish Republic.

That was the situation when the truce began last July after King George had made a conciliatory speech at the opening of the new parliament in Ulster.

The purpose of the negotiations now in progress, as defined by Lloyd George and accepted by the Sinn Fein representatives is "to ascertain how the association of Ireland with the community of nations known as the British Empire may be reconciled with the Irish national aspirations."

The conferences began in July. Both sides hoped at times entertained higher hopes of a final and satisfactory settlement probably than at any time since the Irish question became a bone in the side of the British Empire, but there have been several crises when the negotiations seemed doomed to failure.

The first of these occurred when Lloyd George offered to do what amounted to conciliation in London a form of self-government in Ireland something like that prevailing in the British dominions. The Dail Eireann utterly rejected this proposal on the ground that it did not afford genuine dominion rule. For a time it seemed that a roadblock had been reached.

Lloyd George endeavored to resume negotiations but this move seemed likely to be barred by de Valera's insistent that the Irish delegations to such a conference must be accepted as having derived their authority from a free and independent Ireland. The British Premier refused to concede that point as, he said, it would constitute a recognition at the very outset of Ireland's claims for separation from the British Empire.

This obstacle was overcome by the two parties agreeing upon Lloyd George's formula that the purpose of the conference should be to ascertain how Ireland's association with the empire might be reconciled with Ireland's national aspirations.

Under that formula meetings have been in progress since early October. The proceedings have been secret. It has been reported, however, that the British representatives submitted a plan to give Ireland a status of "association" with the empire and to allow her an almost complete measure of self-government to be exercised by certain parliaments in Ulster and in Southern Ireland respectively by a Central Council jointly chosen.

This brought Ulster again into the negotiations and compelled Premier Lloyd George to defer his trip to the Washington Conference on Limitation of Armament so that he could devote the time to an effort to overcome Ulster's institution to consult with the South of Ireland in any form of common government.

The general understanding was that the Sinn Fein delegates insisted that there must be no partition of Ireland into the North and South with different forms of government and different relations to the Empire.

To expedite the consultations, it was said, Lloyd George invited Sir Jas. Craig, the Ulster Premier, to come to London in the first week in November to talk things over. The situation was indicate that Sir James dashed the hopes and advice of other Ulster leaders and finally all the members of the Ulster cabinet were called to London. Ulster opinion in England has been steadfastly against any "coercion of Ulster." It was generally conceded that one of the most difficult stages of the negotiations had been reached.

"RELIGION IS OPIUM FOR THE PEOPLE"

Moscow—"Religion is opium for the people" is the slogan which the Soviet government caused to be placed as a permanent stop tablet in the wall of the Moscow City Hall facing the Iberian Chapel.

This little chapel stands at the entrance to the Red Square, and contains the ikon which is more sacred to Russian churchmen than any other in the entire domain of the former Czar. Consequently it is greatly frequented by pilgrims and supplicants who have suffered all sorts of misfortunes and reverses.

The stream of worshippers at the sacred ikon continues in spite of the strong stand which Bolshevist officials have erected. And the disregard of the faithful for the official sneer recorded on the tablet is clearly indicative of the failure of the Communist regime to lessen the regard for religion throughout Russia.

Communists are expelled from the party in large numbers for having their children baptized, or for being married in a church or showing religious tendencies. At least these are the reasons given officially in many cities where the cleansing of the party is taking place.

In response to inquiries as to whether abandonment of religion had made it unnecessary for the American Relief Administration to send Rodzianko food to Russia, a prominent member of the Communist party who is attached to the Foreign Office said food which Orthodox Jews can eat should be sent from America by all means as the political changes had not caused them to abandon their religion to pay obeisance to Moscow.

Lutheran and Roman Catholic churches as well as the Russian orthodox churches are open and apparently well attended in Petrograd, Moscow and other cities. Churches all belonging to the Greek and other Catholic sects in Petrograd and Moscow and are thronged with believers and worshippers.

SURVEY OF INDUSTRIES BY CHAMBER

The industrial committee of the Chamber of Commerce has just completed a survey of present conditions in the industries of Portsmouth outside of the Navy Yard. It shows some interesting facts. Twenty-two industries were included. Six of them are working with full force, or better. In one case, seventy-five men above the number normally employed, are under employment. Well on toward a thousand are work in the different industries. Of the men working, there are nine-tenths as many as in what are called normal times. The chief reduction in employment appears to be among women, for only a little more than one-half the women operatives are now busy that ordinarily are employed.

One fact clearly brought out is that the industries of Portsmouth chiefly are those engaged in manufacturing products which require men, for in "normal times" three men to one woman are employed, while at the present time there are more than four men to one woman.

Except among the women, employment in the private industries seems to be above the average for industry and the actual number of unemployed of both sexes is only nineteen percent of the total employed in "normal times."

TRAP SHOOTING CHANGES OF LOCAL INTEREST

The general committee of the American Trapshooting Association at a meeting in New York Saturday award of the Grand American Handicap Tournament of 1922 to Atlantic City, for the week of Sept. 13. The shoot will take place in the airdrome where Jack Dempsey trained for his bout with Carpentier.

The question of fees for gunners wishing to compete in the Grand American was referred to the programme committee. This body is made up of Sidney McLean of New York, Secretary of the A. T. A., George S. McCarty of Newfield, N. J., who represents the Eastern zone of the A. T. A., and Leonard Clark of New York, a member of the executive committee.

One important change was made in the rules at Saturday's meeting. Hereafter, whenever the scorer at a match or tournament neglects to put down the result of a shooter's inning, that inning is charged against the gunner as a lost target. This change was intended to insure each gunner's keeping his score carefully and to prevent any possibility of misunderstanding and inaccuracy relative to the keeping of scores.

Two other amendments to the practice rules were considered, but vetoed. One of them was a proposition to change the shape of the firing line from a semi-circle to a straight line, and the other provided for a change in the methods of scoring doubles targets. At present when a gunner hits one bird but misses the other while shooting doubles he is charged with a hit and a miss. The suggested change was to score a miss against him when he failed to break both birds.

A slight modification was made in the rule governing the Clay Target Championship of North America in the national tournament. This provides for a division of the competitors into four classes, according to their averages. In this way not only the championship of North America will be won in this event, but there will also be a Class A, and a championship, the high gunner of all the competitors, of course, winning the national championship, no matter in which class he is shooting. Trophies will be awarded in all the classes.

The committee also decided to sanction match shoots, but not to register the targets. In the past the A. T. A. has had nothing to do with these events. Eligibility rules were left by the committee to the various state associations.

BIG "Y" CONVENTION ENDS AT NASHUA

Nashua, Dec. 4.—The three-day 13th annual gathering of the Older Boys' Conference of New Hampshire, under the auspices of the State Y. M. C. A., ended tonight at the Pilgrim church, the headquarters during the conference. The feature was an address on "Boys the World Round," by Charles H. Scott, boys' work secretary of New Jersey, who has just returned from a trip around the world.

Rev. L. L. Barber led the devotional service, and Bertrand A. Bowers of Keene the singing. This afternoon Rev. William Porter Niles was the speaker at the delegates' meeting at the Pilgrim church, and Dr. W. C. Coleman of New York city at the First Congregational church for the men. The Congregational choir of Manchester sang at the latter meeting, which was for the men. The conference has been the most successful the body has held, much more than 100 delegates being in attendance.

PASTOR'S RULES ON DRESS OF BRIDES AND ATTENDANTS CAUSE COMMENT

Rev. W. C. Robertson of Christ Episcopal church of Chattanooga, Tenn., has created considerable comment in that city and elsewhere by the issuing of rules governing the attire of brides and their attendants.

The pastor intimated that anyone violating the rules would not be allowed to take part in a wedding ceremony in the church.

Following the five resolutions promulgated and which will be sent to prospective brides and their maids:

1. No dress called technically an evening dress will be allowed, that is no extra fullness in the neck, but generally what women now wear on the street, a modern "V," round or square neck with a complete back and front.

2. Skirts must not be higher than where the turning of the calf of the leg begins and be wide enough to allow of genuflecting before the Blessed Sacrament, which is the custom of the church without exposing the calf, much less the knee.

3. Sleeves must not be shorter than the elbows.

4. A veil covering of hair or veil must be left for the head.

5. If transparent or semi-transparent material is used, a suitable lining must be used.

67 CONGRESS CONVENED TODAY

(By Associated Press)

Washington, Dec. 5.—The 67th Congress convened at noon today for its first regular session. Ten days only had elapsed since the adjournment of the extra session, and it was generally predicted that the session convening today would not end until well into next summer.

The financial findings of both houses was confined to routine business awaiting the communicating of the President's address. This was scheduled for tomorrow at a joint session.

LABOR BOARD HELPS NEW ENGLAND ROADS

Chicago—A decision expected to cut nearly $1,000,000 annually from the payrolls of New England railroads was handed down by the U. S. Railroad Labor Board recently when it readjusted the rates of pay clerks making the hourly rate identical for men who work six days and those who work seven days a week.

The ruling becomes effective on December 16 on five roads: Boston & Maine, Maine Central, New York New Haven & Hartford, Central New England Railway and the Portland, Me., Terminal Company.

Inequalities of from 30 to 90 cents a day resulted in the pay of clerks in these roads from the application of a rule in the clerks' national agreement, which became effective January 1, 1920. Prior to this date the New England roads had paid certain employes on a daily basis, some being assigned to a six day week and others working seven days. Both received the same daily rate.

Rule 66 of the clerks' agreement prescribed a method of converting the weekly and monthly rates into daily rates under which the employes asked for a revision and a dispute relating to adjustment board for that territory rendered a decision resulting in the unequal pay.

The Labor Board ruled today that rule 66 was applicable only to employes heretofore paid on a weekly or monthly basis and that the employes paid on a daily basis should continue to be paid at the same rate daily. The higher daily rate of the seven day men, caused by the application of rule 66, was therefore reduced to coincide with that of the six-day men.

STOLEN SHOES FOUND IN NEWBURY BARN

Newburyport, Dec. 3.—The police this afternoon recovered six cases of men's and women's shoes in a Newbury barn. They have a wholesale value of about $800. The shoes had been shipped by the Burley & Stevens company, the Allied Shoe Company and the W. D. Hanpah Company via the Peoples Express Company to Boston and points West, and were stolen from a freight car near Newbury Junction.

As Jeremie Garand, who rents the Newbury barn, was turning over hay he uncovered a 36-pair case of women's boots from which the size 6's had been removed. He reported the find to the police and a further search revealed the additional shoes.

SEES HARD WINTER COMING AND GOES TO THE COUNTY FARM

Hundreds of summer people at Hampton and Salisbury beaches will remember Prof. George Harris, who has for years entertained them with songs and dances. Harris, yielding to hard times and the approach of a long hard winter, has had to go to the county farm at Brentwood for 90 days.

"Professor" Harris gave himself up Friday night at Exeter, and was taken before the municipal court charged with being an idle person, and with no means of support. So he was given 90 days which will take him through the winter.

"Professor" Harris has now spent several winters at the institution, where he put in some hard work around the farm and slates that he has shoveled many tons of coal while there. He has recently returned from Woburn, Mass. He is a well known character, and plays the banjo and guitar, besides singing and dancing.

PUT OUT AUTO FIRE WITH EXTINGUISHER

The quick action of another auto owner with a fire extinguisher prevented the automobile of Dr. T. W. Luce from going up in smoke on Pleasant street this forenoon. When the car was standing near the New Hampshire Bank building a short circuit started a blaze around the engine. The damage was slight.

The regular meeting of Fidelity Gardner Rebekah Lodge will be held this evening. The degree will be conferred upon a class of candidates.

ORIENTAL STYLES VOGUE FOR 1922

Cleveland, Ohio, Dec. 4.—Oriental styles and low waist lines with wide graceful sleeves and the skirt slightly longer but still short enough to retain a "youthful appearance," have been recommended for the spring and summer of 1922 by the National Cloak Suit and Coat Manufacturers' Association in convention here.

The combinations of plaids, satins or taffetas with plain cloth are suggested with ornaments or cut steel, nail heads, Angora wool, braids, stitching, leather trimmings and buckles.

Soft, roomy, sports coats will be popular it is believed. Some are to be belted while others fall in loose lines. Patch pockets and notch throat and soft rolling collars are expected to be in demand. Bloused coats with wide, voluminous sleeves and low waist lines also are designed.

Three-piece suits are expected to be popular, the dress made on straight hanging lines to be worn with a jaunty little type of coat or a smart little cape.

Odd Items From Everywhere

John Barnaby of Providence, who drove an automobile to Portland a week ago, said he was stopped 13 times on the trip of 150 miles by officers who were seeking the Chelsea bank messenger robbers.

In Belgium a special Sunday postage stamp is occasionally used. It indicates that the letter bearing it is not to be delivered on Sunday.

William Roberts of New Orleans, while playing golf at the St. John Club in that city, hooked his drive from the fourth tee into the lake. The ball skidded along the surface of the water and landed on the back of a swan. Mr. Roberts' partner ruled that it was a "fowl shot" so a second ball was played from the tee and the match proceeded.

W. Mason of Nepaug, Conn., while cutting a large chestnut tree, found a pint bottle filled with whisky. The flask is said to have been placed in the tree 40 years ago by Calvin Moxandera.

W. T. Lee, editor of the White River News of Hazelton, Ind., announced that his paper would cease publication for a week on account of the Gibson Comm. "For Mr. Lee is a member of the band that furnishes music for the great and only."

WATCH CHILDREN BURN TO DEATH

Henry Lytle, Formerly of This City, Father of the Two Who Lost Their Lives.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lytle of New Bedford, Mass., who lost two children Alice, two years, and Henry, r. 7, in the fire on Thursday last, were former residents of this city.

Three other children escaped the flames. The Lytle cottage is in a sparsely settled district, about two miles west of Acushnet avenue, in the north end of the city. Most of the buildings are farm houses or cottages 1 1-2 to two stories high. The window from which the occupants of the burning house jumped were therefore not far above the ground.

The children could be seen burning in their beds. They became unconscious from smoke and evidently did not realize their sufferings.

Three other children of Mr. and Mrs. Lytle and Mrs. Lytle's father escaped from the building by jumping through widows. They received cuts and bruises in going through the panes and in landing on the frozen ground.

The fire destroyed the cottage, a ...ed ca ch automobile with a total loss of many thousands of dollars.

The fire was discovered by Mrs. Lytle's father shortly after 1.30 a. m. He aroused Mr. Lytle who first ran out to sound an alarm. The box was some distance from the house, and when he returned he found the interior a mass of flames and was informed that although his wife and three other children had escaped, his two youngest could not be reached.

In connection with this fire two policemen of the New Bedford department have been suspended for allowing the bodies of the children to be exposed so long after the fire was extinguished.

MISS HAYES WINS IN DOLL CONTEST

Elizabeth Hayes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Hayes of Portland, former residents of this city, was the winner in a doll contest conducted by the Portland Press-Herald. She had 1587 in the five-days' contest. Her nearest competitor was Miss Hinds with 1133. Little Miss Hayes is widely known in Portland as a juvenile entertainer.

The Golden Rule Circle of King's Daughters of the Baptist church will meet with Mrs. C. M. Akerman on Tuesday afternoon. The members will sew on toys for the Sunday school Christmas tree.

REPEAT PAGEANT AT NORTH CHURCH

Two Presentations Given Sunday Before Capacity Audiences.

The pageant given Friday evening in celebration of the 250th anniversary of the North Church was repeated Sunday afternoon with every pew in the church filled and scores unable to gain admission. At four o'clock, the hour for the opening of the service, the church doors had to be closed although the sidewalk was thronged with people anxious to witness the pageant and it was announced that the pageant would be repeated.

As the evening service at the church was not to be held, owing to the presentation of the pageant in the afternoon, it made it possible to have a second presentation on Sunday evening at seven o'clock. The children who participated in the pageant were served a lunch at the North Church chapel at the close of the afternoon presentation, that they might be in readiness for the evening.

Several substitutes in the characters had to be made in the evening, owing to some being unable to be there. Miss Katherine Beane substituted for Miss Muriel Lance as "Spirit of the Church" as the latter returned to Boston on the evening train. Ralph Wood substituted for Clarence Towne, Charles P. Brewster for Walter Harvey and William H. Slayton for Ralph Wood.

The names of Edward Sherburne of the Plains, who appeared in the church scenes and that of Dr. John S. Neal, who took the part of a member of the legislature, were unintentionally omitted from the printed program. Robert Hollister carried the colors and Clyde Robinson the church service flag.

The success of the pageant was beyond all expectation and at each presentation it held the undivided attention of the audience. It was presented in a most dignified manner and all recognized it as a service. At the close of the evening presentation the pastor, Rev. Lucius H. Thayer, stood among the little children grouped upon the platform and pronounced the benediction.

THE HERALD HEARS

That it is estimated as a result of the recent storm, seven thousand poles of the various public service corporations are on the ground in Massachusetts.

That Chief Healey of the Manchester Police Department has declared war against several publications peddled broadcast in that city.

That he claims several of the magazines are not good reading matter.

That certain printed matter contains short stories, jokes and similes that savor strongly of obscenity, vulgarity and sheer nastiness, even to the actual reproduction of the vilest curses is in violation of the laws of the state of New Hampshire.

That firemen and other workmen from the telephone and telegraph companies have been called from the south to help clear up and build over the lines in Massachusetts that were wrecked by the recent storm.

That four trains with workmen were out on the B. & M. on Sunday.

That the Aeolian Male Quartet of this city gave the musical part of the program of the Elks' Memorial service at Newburyport on Sunday.

That the heavy surf has been pounding the shores of Hampton and Salisbury Beaches.

That the breakwater at the end of Haverhill street, Hampton Beach, that was completed the latter part of the season by the Cashman Construction Company, Newburyport, has been washed away as a result of the incessant pounding of the waves.

That the officers of the coast guard stations both at Salisbury and Hampton Beaches report that they are receiving numerous calls from cottage owners located in cities all over New England who are inquiring about their property.

That in Berlin when a girl appears on the street with skirts too short, her mother is summoned to appear in court.

That this law would keep the authorities and police more than busy in this country.

That the courts would have hardly anything else on the docket.

That if no monkey wrenches or twist drills are tossed into the machinery at the eleventh hour, the Birmingham and St. Helaire bout will be staged at Sanford tonight.

That the would-be "reformers" who succeeded in preventing this bout being staged in New Hampshire should be admitted to the Order of the Double Cross.

That Elva Thomas, aged 19, of Virden, Ill., is keeping Dan Cupid busy.

That Eliza has taken the third husband for better or worse.

That a well known Marcy street grocer says there is no truth in the report that the anchors have been hoisted and that the local navy yard will be towed to Boston.

That the jakey confiscated by the police last Friday was the first liquor of its kind brought in for several months.

That women employes of the Portsmouth postoffice are compelled to wear uniforms. These uniforms consist of a full length grey apron with sleeves and white collar.

That one of the local churches may after be for sale.

That at present no one connected with the same can confirm the report.

MRS. RUBLEE TO GIVE N. Y. POLICE A FIGHT ON BIRTH CONTROL

Mrs. Julia (Barrett) Rublee of New York, a daughter of the late Major Samuel Barrett and Mrs. Barrett, who has a summer home in New Castle, where Mrs. Rublee is well known, has stirred up New York over her arrest for attending and taking part in a birth control meeting in that city. The New York Herald has the following about the case:

"Mrs. Juliet Barrett Rublee of 212 East Forty-ninth street, who was arrested at Police Headquarters on Friday after she testified regarding the breaking up of the birth control meeting in Town Hall by the police, will hold a conference tomorrow with Paul D. Cravath, who she has retained as counsel, and her husband, George Rublee, when a definite plan of action against the police will be taken. After a talk with Mrs. Rublee yesterday Mr. Cravath said:

"I am glad to act as counsel for Mrs. Rublee in this matter. Both she and her husband are old friends of mine. I consider the action of the police outrageous and I am sure that some action will be taken against them. On the subject of the wisdom of birth control I have not made up my mind. But I am clear that the advocates of birth control are entitled to freedom of speech. I think they have been treated outrageously by the police and such treatment should not pass unnoticed."

Mr. Rublee, who is in Washington, will come here for the conference. Mrs. Rublee was arrested on the charge of violating Section 1142 of the Penal Code, relating to the dissemination of birth control information. The case was dismissed subsequently by Magistrate Peter A. Hatting for lack of evidence that a crime had been committed. Mrs. Margaret Sanger and Miss Mary Winsor were arrested at the Town Hall meeting by order of Police Capt. Thomas Donohue. They were also discharged for lack of evidence."

THAT FINAL HOLIDAY JAM

It'll be bad enough anyway in the closing hours of December 24.

Everybody crowding and clamoring.

Everybody wondering why all the rest of them didn't get theirs done earlier, so as to leave the coast clear.

But think how much worse it would be if all your Christmas trade waited till the last day and then crowded in, demanding instant and perfect attention.

It'd be Some Scramble.

And nobody satisfied. You yourself least of all.

Even with the influence of the Shop Early crusade you have all you can do to attend to the last-minute buyers.

And you know prefectly well that they'd get better results for themselves, in most cases, if they would do their shopping earlier—early in the month, early in the week, early in the day.

That's an example of last-minute difficulties taken from your business.

Now let's apply it to our business—to our business of setting and publishing advertisements.

The rule works exactly the same.

When everybody crowds in at the last minute, and some even try to go beyond it, then the works are bound to be congested.

And results won't be as good.

That's the big point, as far as you're concerned.

You advertise to get results.

The more pep and punch the boys in the composing room can put into your copy when they turn it into type, the better will be the results.

But they can't do it when the bulk of the copy comes piling in an hour before press time.

Any more than your salesfolk can give half an hour apiece to customers when the crowd is six deep against the counters.

Early copy this month means the same thing to your ads that early shopping does to your trade.

So let the good rule work both ways. When you ask your trade to do its shopping early, glance at the clock to see if your copy's in on time.

The more time you give us, especially this month, the better the ad will be.

STEAMSHIP LINES TO QUIT PORTLAND

Portland, Me.—Failure to reach an agreement as to wages to be paid the longshoremen for grain was followed late today by the announcement that steamship lines had taken steps toward cancelling sailings to this port and that the service maintained between Portland and European ports would be withdrawn. Steamship officials asserted that it would be impossible to operate the ships under the present grain rates.

Negotiations relative to a reduction of wages began in October. The men accepted a cut on general cargo work but refused to accept 15 per cent reduction on grain work. Several conferences within the last few days have failed to develop an agreement.

The steamship lines affected are the White Star Dominion, Cunard, Anchor Donaldson, Thomson, Cairn, Furness, Rogers & Webb, North Atlantic & Western and vessels operated by the United States Shipping Board.

The proposition of a wage reduction for handling grain was considered by the union again tonight, and it was announced that the matter would be submitted to a ballot of the members tomorrow.

CATHLIC CHURCH FIRE

The Portland Express under the head of "Fifty Years Ago," has the following relative to the Catholic church fire:

"During the fire at Portsmouth Sunday night, the sister of the priest, whose residence was burned with the Roman Catholic church, was awakened by a parrot calling the servant's name, and screaming Fire!! They barely had time to save their clothes and a portion of the furniture, and but for Polly, might have been burned to death!"

St. John's Church

[illegible] Church [illegible] Sunday morning [illegible] Rev. Dr. [illegible] preached an able sermon. The Bible of the early church was the Old Testament, as the new testament was not compiled until the third century. Therefore we have greater cause than they to rejoice and find comfort and guidance from the Bible. It is a help, consolation and instruction suited for all our needs.

"The four hundred years critics have assailed the Bible and asked to the court, impugned that position and to lose confidence in its credibility, history and precepts. The attitude of our church has remained the same throughout all ages of adversity, and we retain our confidence and respect for the whole Bible.

"Portions of scripture are appointed to be read in the church for each day in the year, and they are different for each year. The Bible should be read in every home. We should study it diligently and apply the precepts therein set forth, thus [illegible] strengthening our lives in Christian warfare."

The evening sermon related to our views and attitude in this life as affecting our condition in the life to come, when our physical bodies are discarded and our environment changed. Text: Revelation 21:1.

The Girls' Friendly Society will hold a Christmas sale in the Parish House Saturday, commencing at 3 p. m. Stereopticon pictures of California will be shown at 5 p. m.

ARRANGE 120-MILE DOG RACE THIS YEAR

Berlin, N. H., Dec. 5.—The first international dog race of its kind has been definitely arranged as a part of the winter carnival in this city during the early part of February next.

This contest, in which three teams at least, will participate, is along a course of 120 miles, starting from Berlin and going up through Errol, Dixville Notch to Colebrook and returning by North Stratford, Groveton and Lancaster back to the starting point. The eight mile race of last year to Gorham excited wide-spread publicity.

With the completion of the new ski jump, Berlin has what is claimed to be the most significant runaway in the East. The Nansen ski club which has worked so wholeheartedly on this proposition has put its first the idea of a fitting representative to participate in the skiing events at the Holmenkolen in Norway in 1924. Among those who have shown unusual interest in this project are "Spike" Olsen, Harvald Anderson and Victor Mortensen.

The Berlin carnival is expected to furnish three days crammed full of winter sports.

The music at these services will tend to bring a much larger congregation. Rev. H. A. Stahl preached the sermon at both services which was very inspiring and instructive.

RED CROSS AIDS HELPLESS HORDES

Relief Operations for Year on Tremendous Scale.

CHILDREN CHIEF CONCERN

Health Units Established in All War-Ravaged Areas, Says Annual Report—Thousands of Children Being Rescued From the Misery War Has Visited Upon Them—500,000 Persons in Austria Helped With Food, Clothing and Medical Supplies.

American Red Cross relief operations in Europe during the last fiscal year were concerned almost entirely in aiding otherwise helpless hordes of refugees and establishing a chain of child health units that are rescuing thousands of children from the misery war has visited upon them, says the annual report of the Red Cross.

In Austria the American Red Cross program resulted in the distribution of food, clothing and medical supplies to 500,000 persons, mostly children; gave employment in garment making to 40,000 native women; provided 25,000,000 francs worth of medical and other supplies to 285 hospitals, 8,300 beds to institutions caring for 27,000 children and assisted organizations reaching 107,000 persons.

In South Russia and Constantinople the organization was called upon to suddenly care for 150,000 refugees, who were forced to leave the Crimea when Wrangel's army collapsed. It distributed all the supplies originally placed at its disposal in the Near East, $300,000 sent by the Russian embassy in the United States and an additional $100,000 worth of supplies from its own reserve fund.

In Poland 40,000 refugees who had fled before the Russian soviet invasion were cared for, 500,000 children were assisted with food and clothing. Permanent relief work was established in many hospitals for children, more than 1,000 surgical cases were cared for weekly and a maximum of 750,000 persons were fed in a single month.

Aid for Earthquake Victims.

In Italy the chief work of the American Red Cross last year was assistance given in the Mugello and Tuscany earthquakes, when it had 215 tents with all relief supplies created and in operation within 48 hours.

In Hungary the outstanding feature of the work for the year was the distribution to needy children and refugees of 1,500,000 articles of clothing and the mobilization of 50,000 native women in a nationwide knitting campaign. The total relief supply distributions of the Red Cross in Hungary for the year averaged ten tons a day.

In Greece 50,000 Greek refugees from the Caucasus were assisted with food and clothing and later were given such supplies that a large number of them were able to return to their deserted villages and resume their homes and occupations. A complete child health program was also inaugurated among 10,000 children.

GOT RICH ON FARM

Prosperous Canadian Woman Was Once Poor.

Mrs. Mary J. Blackburn, a pioneer woman farmer of Alberta, Canada has just added 160 acres to her farm near Hardesty.

Coming from Eastern Canada, Mrs. Blackburn homesteaded a quarter section in 1902. She had two Holstein heifers, a bull and $17 in cash. She lived in a tent the first summer and in a sod shack in the winter.

Her first crop put her, as she tells the story, "on Easy street." In ten years she had a herd of sixty pure-bred Holstein cattle and was operating a prosperous dairy. A fine residence had supplanted the sod hut.

"I milked the cows, raised my cattle, cut hay and stacked it, all by myself," said Mrs. Blackburn.

WILD HORSES ARE PESTS

Farmers In Northern Washington Kept in Constant Fear of Raids.

Wild horses are giving the farmers living near the Canadian border of Washington much trouble. The animals tear down fences and often chase large herds of cattle. The farmers have started a war of extermination.

Domestic horses which mingle with the wild ones soon revert to the outlaw nature. Their home is in a faulty bad land region between the Cascade and Rocky Mountains.

A sleek black stallion, carrying an unusually long silky mane and massive tail, is known to have in his "harem" nearly 300 mares of all ages and colors. He carefully guards them from other herds, and at the slightest alarm stampedes and leads them at great speed to the distant hills.

DOG SAVES MISTRESS

Tore Off Her Burning Clothes When She Screamed.

Joe, a shepherd dog, saved his mistress from probable death when her dress caught fire the other day. When Mrs. Martha Wood of Dunn, N. C., attempted to start a fire with gasoline, supposing it to be kerosene, her dress started to blaze. She ran screaming to the back porch. The dog caught to her aid, tearing the burning dress from her body.

Pauline Frederick

"A cowboy among cowboys," is the way the boys at the Cheyenne roundup designated the handsome "movie" star, Pauline Frederick, who was their invited guest. Pauline became endeared to the boys when she demonstrated her ability to ride and rope a steer with the best of ten fast runners. "I'd rather ride than eat," is the way the star expressed her delight in the pastime.

How It Started

THE BALLOT.

IN ORDER to keep votes and opinions secret the ancients resorted to some form of vote. The Greeks used oyster shells (ostrakon) to vote on the banishment or ostracism of men; the Romans used tablets or tabellae. The printed ballot was used in the New England colonies in the earliest days of their history, but its use in Europe was not until later. In 1710 it was proposed by the English parliament but was rejected. The French chamber of deputies used it in 1840-1845.

Influence of Seaweeds on Waves.

The gigantic seaweeds of high southern latitudes exercise a remarkable effect in stilling the waves; so much so that at Kingston, South Australia, an open bay has been made a safe anchorage by virtue of this effect.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

ALONG THE SHORE.

THE word "impossible" has no place in the brave man's vocabulary. This statement applies with equal force and certainty to brave women; to brave boys and girls who, in their faith and persistency adhere firmly to right purposes and keep ever pressing forward, refusing always to admit defeat.

If it were not for these courageous people, the world would soon drift into a state of deplorable ignorance, helplessness and poverty.

How strong and capable is the stoutly sailed ship on the sea of life, with her white canvas bulging as she booms on to the distant haven where hordes of expectant humans await her arrival!

If in adverse winds and pounding storms the navigator should throw up his hands and cry "impossible" the ship and her precious cargo would be lost.

There is entrusted to you by the Creator full command of the wonderful ship that carries your soul, which at the end of life's voyage you are expected to bring safely into the harbor.

You must not shirk this great responsibility.

You must not cry "Impossible," "Be heard or enthusiasm.

You must perform your whole duty with unfailing precision, whether sailing under clear skies or beneath domes darkened with leaden clouds driven by howling gales.

The storms are meant to test your skill and patience; to bring out your fine qualities; to enable you to say with the strong and the true that nothing is "impossible" for him or her who holds fast to faith.

In a world where most of us sail in circles, unmindful of the dangers we meet every day to be founded of whatever lies beyond—the innumerable rocks that we must shun; the fearfuls of our own making that must be avoided and the whirlpools of the evil one.

Many souls have gone down on the jagged reefs of laid habits; many others have been ruthlessly swept overboard by sudden whirlwinds of temper, or lashed to pieces by stinging tongues.

All along the shore of adventure from adolescence to old age, the long beaches are strewn with wrecks of humans who never learned to hold the Soul's Ship, who never sought the peaceful harbor, because they stubbornly refused to recognize the possibility of writing on the ocean of life the record of a heroic life.

Mother's Cook Book

WHAT TO EAT.

THE following are some of the many good old-fashioned dishes that most of us enjoy:

Oyster Stew.

Put a pint of oysters in a colander and pour over them cold water to rinse, then pick out the oysters with the fingers to see that there are no bits of shell. Heat three cupfuls of milk over hot water; strain into it the oyster liquor and add three tablespoonfuls of butter. Cook the oysters until they are plump and the edges curl; add the hot milk, half up and serve at once.

English Pastry.

Cut into small pieces a pound of round steak; cut in slices a pint of potatoes; slice three onions. Make a rich biscuit dough; roll out and line a deep pie plate; put in a layer of the diced meat, a sprinkling of salt and pepper, a layer of potatoes and onions. Cover with a crust as for pie, leaving a small opening for the steam to escape. Bake slowly until the crust is well done. Wrap in a cloth and steam for ten minutes before serving. This meat pie is good hot or cold.

Meat Balls

Season two cupfuls of chopped meat with salt, pepper, a pinch of clove and a little minced onion, a cupful of oatmeal (or other cooked cereal); add one egg and shape into cakes. Brown in butter or lard and butter mixed. Serve garnished with sprigs of parsley.

Custard Pie.

Prepare a rich crust and line a deep pie plate. For the filling take one-quarter cupful of sugar, two eggs well beaten, a pint of milk and nutmeg to season. Just before going into the oven sprinkle with a half-cupful or more of chopped black walnut meats. Bake as usual. The nuts will form a nice brown crust on top of the pie.

REPUBLICANS NOMINATE WARD COUNCILMEN

The republican ward caucuses were held on Saturday afternoon and evening and while there was nothing that could be called a contest, there was a good attendance of all of the wards and the ward councilmen were nominated.

In Ward One there was no contest, Ernest Frederickson was given the nomination without opposition.

In Ward Four it looked like a real contest with possibly four candidates, but at the time that the caucus was opened, it had dwindled down to two and as one only secured five votes, it was not much of a contest. Frank H. Churchill was given the nomination over John W. Downs.

In the other wards there was no opposition to the ward committee ticket and the following are the nominations for the five wards:

Ward One—Ernest Frederickson, farmer.

Ward Two—E. Curtis Matthews, Jr., banker.

Ward Three—John Leary, grocer.

Ward Four—Frank H. Churchill, grocer.

Ward Five—George H. Whittemore, carpenter.

The republican city committee met on Saturday evening and selected a ticket to place before the caucus this afternoon and evening from 5 to 7 o'clock. Edward S. Downs was placed on the ticket to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Councilman Norman H. Bean.

The following is the ticket endorsed by the Republican City Committee to be placed in nomination without any contest as far as is known:

For Mayor—G. W. Hartford.

For Councilmen-at-large—Henry P. Payne, Harry B. Philbrook, William E. Dowdell, Edward S. Downs.

For Assessor of Taxes—Charles E. Hodgdon.

For member of the Board of Public Works—Clarence Smart.

With the exception of Mr. Downs, all were renominated.

Why Don't You All Join In?

Here is a suggestion that you cannot fail to appreciate, if you read and follow it. Instead of giving separate presents, costing may be five to twenty-five dollars apiece, why not pool the whole fund and buy something worth while by the whole family for the whole family?

Now, we know you are going to say right off—"This is an advertisement from Margeson Brothers and they want to sell us something out of their store." Right you are! This is an advertisement from Margeson Brothers, and we would indeed like to have you purchase the family present from this store; but, whatever you do or wherever you buy, don't let this idea of throwing the money together and buying one good thing get away from you.

Of course, if you should come here—and something tells us you are more than likely to come—then there are a lot of things we can suggest and show that we believe will aid greatly in making your household one of the happiest. Get the family together, appoint a purchasing committee and then come in.

Hoyt, at Kittery Point on Saturday, after a lingering illness. He was a native of Lenwick, Me., when he enlisted in the Union's cause and had a splendid war record. At the battle of Gettysburg, Mr. Favour was shot through the foot, which caused the amputation of his leg. Following his discharge he came here and for several years was watchman at Fort McClary.
